THE Boston- AND COUNTRY Gazette, JOURNAL.

No. 661.

Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestic.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1767.

Messieurs EDES & GILL,

You are desired by the Subscribers, to publish the following.

THE Subscription Rolls, for encouraging Oeconomy, Industry, our own Manufactures, and the disuse of foreign Superfluities, are in the Town Clerk's Hands, open to all Persons who have not yet subscribed.

The Selectmen strongly recommend this Measure to Persons of all Ranks, as the most honorable and effectual way of giving a public Testimony of their Love to their Country, and of endeavouring to save it from ruin. We especially recommend it at this Time, as malicious Persons venture, in the public Prints, falsely to insinuate that the above-mentioned Subscription is merely a Party Business, and the Proposal only of a Junto; notwithstanding so many Gentlemen of the first Credit, Character and Reputation have already encouraged it by their Subscriptions.

We detest Mobs and riotous Assemblies, [illegible] Fellow-Townsmen, gave us Leave to persuade [illegible] your Tempers, and study Moderation, [illegible] Incitements artfully thrown out to beg[illegible] Measures. Believe us—they are intend[illegible] excite your resentment that you may then [illegible] can take a second tho't, be thrown into [illegible] of it as may be improved by designing Persons [illegible] will tend to the Gratification of their own [illegible] your Ruin.

The Author of a Piece, in the last Monday's Post, inconsistently signed A True Patriot, [illegible] such an Aim as is above pointed out; as all who were present at the two last Meetings of the Town must know that he has misrepresented Facts, and that in [illegible] Manner, as every Reader must observe, the Tendency thereof is to raise the Passions.

Let us all, Gentlemen, guard against every Thing of the above described Complexion, and avoiding all Outrage or lawless Proceeding, may we join as one Man in a prudent Conduct and cautious Behaviour, thereby [illegible] ing the World we mean, with Resolution and [illegible] triotic Spirit, to pursue our own true Interest [illegible] and inoffensive Way.

To the PRINTERS.

AS Regard to Truth, and Justice to myself, induce me, in a public Manner to deny, and I utterly deny, that, ever before, at, or since the late Meeting of this Town, I said "it was absurd to suppose that the Commissioners had the least Hand or Influence in laying or procuring the [late] Duties." Nor did I then or ever say "that we had often desired the Establishment of a Board of Commissioners in the Plantations, and complained, that for want of it, we were deprived of many Advantages which our Fellow Subjects in Great Britain enjoy." Nor did I then or ever say that "we ought to consider the Establishment of that Board as a Favour and of great Advantage."

Whatever I may have heard and freely believe of fervent Desires here, and earnest Applications from hence for the Establishment of such a Board, I certainly know of none even from or by a single interested Individual. Sure I am, the Government, I are, never made any such Application nor yet signified any such Desire. I say the Government, for if a few here have solicited this Thing, they are not yet quite the whole Government. As to the vast Utility of this new Establishment I cannot at present form a Judgment. I know not the full Extent of the Powers devolved on those Gentlemen, having never had Opportunity to see their Commission. Besides, should the Effects of this Establishment not prove answerable to the Intention and Expectation, Time alone will sufficiently point out the Reason and the Remedy: In the mean while the Conjectures of a private Man would be of no avail. However, if the Office of a Commissioner General of a Surveyor General, no al imports no more than that a Name, and should the Man of Sense will contend about to call them Commissaries- rest about it. The TAX Admit—sir—then think fit is the apparent Matter of Grievance; and this I think a great One: But Redress is to be sought in a legal and constitutional Way. And I take this further Opportunity to declare without Reserve, that if from the Bottom of my Heart to disapprove of all Illegal and upon all proper Occasions to bear my most humble Testimony against them as far as I am, and ever shall be, have been, so far a Tory, a Tory to any Party but that like Men, for the Rights of Truth and right Reason, which I think I am ready characteristic of the Whigs, to embrace where-ever I find it.

James Otis.

Messieurs EDES & GILL,

Please to insert the following.

Hey day! says Jove; says Pluto too,
I think the Devil's here to do;
Pray what has set 'em all a running
Dear Brother, nothing else but Punning,
Behold that little Creature yonder,
Delights them with a double Entendre
Odsfish, says Pluto, where's your Thunder?
Let drive, and split the Thing asunder.

GULLIVERIANA.

A Seasonable Caveat is a mark of good natured friendship, especially when tis probable the friend advised is not conscious of the danger with which he is threatened; but from F——K's account of the Cur-Dogs, as insignificant and harmless, to me his caution appears somewhat unnecessary, however his motive may be in giving so accurate a description of them; especially as he intends the security of [illegible] professedly acquainted with animals of the [illegible], and much more dangerous than these are. I [illegible] have thought this little man of leisure, had better have employed himself (if matters of far greater moment [illegible] to excite his attention) in describing certain animals [illegible] terrible and destructive, that are peculiar to the [illegible] and with which it cannot be supposed those gentlemen [illegible] acquainted. It is well known that America abounds in beasts of prey, and that her extensive forests are infested with a great variety of them; but as those gentlemen for whom we are so sollicitous, will very likely confine themselves to the town, I shall content myself with mentioning a certain little Animal, to whose depredations from the nature of their business, and from their situation, they are hourly subjected: The Animal I mean, is of the amphibious kind, and is commonly called Water-Rat but from leaving that element for months together, and frequenting houses in the town, 'tis sometimes called a Water-House-Rat for it's pigmy size and natural imbecility, it is indeed contemptible; but for it's vicious and pestilent disposition, for it's sly & unprovoked attacks, when least expected, it is not to be altogether disregarded: This diminutive Brute seldom appears in sight, but whenever he does, he indulges himself in such mischievous and malicious freaks as are scarcely credible; I shall enumerate but a few of the many pranks he has been guilty of. A few years ago this detestable Vermin crawled on board one of his Majesty's ships, commanded by Capt. Brazen, and spoiled and rioted at no rate, what he could not devour, the rascally little urchin endeavoured by tearing, piss[illegible] upon &c. to render useless, and so far delighted in mischief, as at sundry times to snap at the Captain's legs, and on a certain day stealing slyly behind him actually bit him, for which they set a trap for him, but the little malignant Devil had the good fortune to escape. This tiny brute is very fond of books, having found it's way into a gentleman's library, for a number of months it fed very heartily upon them, and what is worthy of remark, is, that for a long time it refused to touch a Greek author; in some peculiarities it resembles the animal called a Sloth, for having devoured all the English and Latin books without distinction, on the shelves, or rather having gnawed them into scraps, and being hungry as a church-mouse, it fell foul of HOMER tooth and nail, but this fare does not seem to suit his palate, his progress is very slow indeed, and 'tis more than probable from the advance he has already made, that he will be as long in digesting that author, as his heroes were in sacking Troy; we cannot be surprized to find that he appears so lean and raw-boned, such diet being by no means convenient for him. This mischievous animalcule is observed to be very timerous, and flies from every creature he provokes by his unlucky tricks, but they tell me this is natural to the whole breed, for they relate a story of the old Rat his sire, that once having a noble cheese in view, which he had scented at a great distance, and panched with hunger had come in quest of, yet was deterred from attacking it, by seeing a mouse already in possession of it, and some stick not to affirm, that the poor creature's panick was so great, it could not keep it's legs, and had not some servants who were set to watch the cheese, obliged him to quicken his pace, they much question whether he would have escaped so well. In general he is allowed to be dexterous in avoiding danger, and has terrible apprehensions on the sight of a Cat, and if a Dog barks at him, retreats with precipitation to his cell, and keeps himself snug for several days after: Once it seems he was caught tripping, as he was skulking behind a certain gentleman, with a design as was supposed to dart his little fangs into his legs; the gentleman watched his waters a little too narrowly, seized him by the neck on the very brink of mischief, but the miserable little Imp squealed so piteously, the gentleman out of compassion let him go; and away he scampered, dragging his little tail after him, till he got to his hole. Altho' his ravages are pretty extensive, yet it does not appear that the silly little Brute, tho' very ravenous, takes any care to furnish his Burrough; and when from extreme timidity and laziness, he confines himself to his little abode, as he sometimes will for weeks together, till he is almost famished; rather than go abroad for food, he will gnaw and destroy his own habitation: His usual kennelling place is near Fort-hill, and is remarkable for it's ragged appearance, owing to the wear and tear of his teeth, in some of his long fits of lazy confinement: He has likewise displayed his talents in a house somewhere in the vicinity of the town-house, but his wretched dilapidations there, have rendered it totally untenantable; the foolish little Urchin seems to have an aversion to bale goods, money, silver-spoons, thimbles, and every thing of that kind, the first if he gets in his possession, he will keep till he gnaws into a thousand holes, rather than let any body else have them; and as for the latter commodities, he will throw them out of window, or take the pains to carry them away, and lose them; or deposit them where he can never recover them again. To display his disposition in one word, I shall relate the following anecdote, which may be depended upon as a fact. Some years ago, a venerable old gentleman of this town named Job remarkable for the benevolence of his heart, by some unaccountable caprice incident to age, became fond of this splinter of Entrity, the little Brute used to trip about the house like a domestick animal, which the good old man encouraged, by now and then throwing him a cruft of bread, rind of cheese, or paring of an apple; at length the old gentleman died, and left a daughter, remarkable for the beauty of her person, the tenderness of her mind, and every virtue which can adorn the best of the sex; one, and but one unlucky whim, seemed to bring her judgment in question; which was making this Lusus Naturæ her darling, to her the little Imp appeared as soft, as gentle and as amiable, as a dormouse, squirrel, or kitten, and she would nurse it in her lap for hours together; he so carefully disguised the latent malignity of his heart, and seemed inclinable to divert her with his pug-tricks, that she really loved him, suffered him to run constantly about the house, and assigned him a little warm apartment in the cup-board to sleep in; in return for all this kindness, what does the ungrateful little Cub do, but soils and dirty's the furniture, breaks the china, gnaws and destroys books, beds, chairs, and whatever he can reach, throws the money and plate all out of window, by which they are irrecoverably lost, and to conclude the mischief, plies Tooth and Nail to undermine the house, which he finally effected; and reduced the unhappy heiress to poverty and distress: Thus much I tho't proper to mention, in pursuance of the kind and charitable design of F——K, if that gentleman thinks proper to proceed further in his benevolent purpose, I by no means intend to be outdone in generosity; and shall conclude with advising those strangers, to order their servants to keep a sharp look out, lest by some means or other the above described water or house-rat should gain admission into their dwellings, to the damage of their persons and property. To the MERCHANTS of BOSTON.

WORTHY GENTLEMEN,

HAVING called upon you once and again, & in every instance found you obedient to my voice, however great the expence, trouble and danger might be to yourselves—And seeing that ye have not yet touched the accursed thing, not imbrued your hands in the blood of your country—I once more implore your assistance to ward off the blow, that every moment threatens me with certain and eternal death—Conspire my dear children, to strengthen your mother in this last struggle with the Lords of the Philistines, now sporting with her bonds and blindness, enable her to lay hold on the two main pillars of their Temple, * and fairly try their strength in Wellminster-Hall: and if they give way there, I shall have at least a Sampson's revenge, in finding my butchers involved in my ruin. (b)

Try one more subscription! The God of your Father's will assist you in your laudable, dutiful and pious endeavours to save the life of your fond Mother on the brink of ruin, and reward you with many and happy days in the land sacred to Religion, and

Meſſieurs EDES & GILL,

THE True Patriot's Performance of laſt Monday has had ſufficient Notice taken of it in the very juſt Remarks of the Seleƈtmen of the Town of Boſton; ſo far as related to his impertinent and rude reflections on the Town in general, as well as many of its reſpectable Inhabitants in particular, who are in the Liſt of Subſcribers to which he refers.

Among the many Pieces which that Writer has publiſhed of late, it would have been agreable to have found a ſingle Argument either in Favor of the parliamentary Regulations, or againſt the Meaſures adopted by the Town to promote Induſtry, Oeconomy and Manufactures of the Country: But it appears pretty evident that he has not a Capacity to reaſon, and is therefore no further reprehenſible than for interfering in a Diſpute which required it.——We know what ſort of Men are ſaid to be always meddling. A Writer who ſtiles himſelf Benevolus ſome Time ago requeſted him preciſely to explain the difference between an internal and an external Tax; which it muſt be ſaid was a very reaſonable Requeſt: But I think Benevolus had better not inſiſt upon it, for I really believe the True Patriot is not able to ſatisfy him in this Matter, notwithſtanding his poſitive Aſſertion that the Tax impoſ'd upon us by Act of Parliament was an internal and not an external one.——I wou'd as a friend adviſe the True Patriot to quit the Stage, at leaſt for ſome Time; for it is apparent enough that he has at preſent his own applauſe; and I very much queſtion whether if he continues to write he will very ſoon be ſo fortunate as to merit the Applauſe of the Publick——I would be candid enough to ſuppoſe that the True Patriot, honeſtly intended to make himſelf ſerviceable to his Country at this Time by his Writings, but he has unhappily fail'd of Succeſs hitherto: and I think I cannot do a greater Piece of Service either to him or to our beloved Country, than to lead him back with me, into that State of Obſcurity, for which I freely own Nature ſeems to have deſign'd us both.

AMICUS.

Meſſieurs EDES & GILL,

Pleaſe to inſert what follows, and you'l oblige your's, &c.

FOR ſeveral Years, Mr. Glas's Works have been ſpread thro' the Land, no doubt with a Deſign to inform the Public of the Religion maintained by him and his Followers; nay, in this View they are publickly recommended by Mr. Pike. And yet according to thoſe Writings (See Vol. I. Chap. V. Sect. II.——23,24,25.) they are now carrying on a moſt rigid anti-chriſtian ſeparation, which every one ought to be againſt. The Doƈtrine of Mens being influenced by the Spirit before they believe, which is now an Abomination to them, is the printed Doƈtrine of Mr. Glas. 'Tis impoſſible any one ſhould be a Member of their Church, who approves his Writings. Thoſe friends who are leſs diſcerning, may think this a Miſrepreſentation; but others know that theſe Things are ſo. The Integrity and Uprightneſs of this Conduƈt, don't appear. Mr. Glas's Books ſhould be called in: or at leaſt he, or ſome one elſe, ſhould print ſomething to enable thoſe who read them, to ſeperate the precious from the vile.

To the PRINTERS.

LAST Saturday se'ennight died here Mr. Edward Watermouse of this Disorder was occasioned by his too close Application to his Business of Pimping that Week, being obliged to tarry out very late several Evenings that he might throw one or two anonymous Letters into Gentlemen's Yards; but it is tho't he might have recovered, had not the unlucky Accident rendered his Case desperate: The Friday Evening preceeding his Death, being greatly chagrined to find the Inhabitants of this Town determined to keep Peace and good Order, notwithstanding all he had done to irritate them, he called for his grand Comforter, a Brandy Bottle, of which he took so large a Draught as threw him into a Phrensy: The next Morning in his Distraction he sent for a Gentleman of the Law to make his Will—but when he came and told him he knew no Form of writing a Will which might enable the Executor to take Possession of such Goods and Effects as had been sold and spent by the Testator; the poor Creature swore and stamped, and called the Lawyer a Clumsy Dog so often, and so loud, that People were alarmed as they passed the House; among others, a Gentleman remarkable for his Humanity, hearing the Disturbance, went in to see if he could do any kind Office to the little Animal; but at Sight of him, his Rage was redoubled, and if his Strength had been sufficient, he certainly would have murdered him; but as it happened, did not do him any Injury: However, with raving and kicking, he so exhausted his Strength, that he swooned away, and tho' prodigious Quantities of Sanff and Cinnamon Water were forced up his Nose and down his Throat, yet about Noon he expired——It is supposed his Aversion to the Gentleman last mentioned, arose from his being often obliged in the Execution of his Office, to call upon Snivel for a small Sum of Money, which he found it extreme difficult to pay.——A Number of Physicians who were sent for, arrived too late; they being curious to examine the Organization of this Lusus Naturæ, dissected him; but nothing of the Peculiarity of the Machinery has yet transpired, excepting what a strange Gentleman from ——, who had not known Snivel in his Lifetime, was heard (by a Person in the next Room) to say, whilst they were dissecting the Head, viz. that he would undertake to demonstrate from the Structure of the Parts, that the deceased could not have been a rational Creature, but was certainly of the Monkey Kind: Further Remarks were prevented, by his being told that he had made no new Discovery, for the better sort of those who had known him, always ranked him with that Species.—His Remains were merrily interr'd last Monday.——A Tragi-comic Funeral Dirge, of his own composing, was played by a little Devil belonging to Messrs. Fleets, to the great Diversion of the Ignorant.—He has left a virtuous Widow, whom he had reduced to Poverty, and a Number of innocent Children, who must hourly feel the ill Effects of their Father's Folly and Wickedness.

QUEBEC, October 29.

On Sunday Evening last returned His Majesty's Ship Canceaux, having under her Convoy a Brig from———, for which the appear'd to have a particular Regard.

NEW-YORK, November 23.

Tuesday last the General Assembly of this Province met here, in order to proceed upon Business; but the Speaker not being come to Town, they were adjourned till the next Day. We hear he arrived Yesterday.

Some Time last Week arrived at Sandy Hook his Majesty's Sloop Viper. A Report prevails, that she is stationed there for the Winter.

The Snow Jersey, Capt. Lawrence, arrived here from Bristol, in 8 Weeks: He took up at Sea, and has bro't in with him the Crew of the Ketch Mercury, Capt. Kennedy, of and from this Port for the West Indies; which Vessel went to Pieces in a Gale of Wind, about 6 Weeks since, being then only 7 Days from this Port.

Extract of a Letter from Pittsburg, dated, October 10.

It is fear'd here, that an Indian War will break out in the Spring. This apprehension is grounded on an Act of Hostility committed by a Party of Indians, on their Return to their Settlements among the Six Nations, from an unsuccessful War in which they had been engaged with the Cherokees. They met with two of our Batteaus richly laden with Goods for the Illinois Company, which they plunder'd, and murdered ten of our People. This Specimen of their Disposition toward us, is consider'd as a Prelude to further Mischief.

Wednesday last the General Assembly of this Province met here, when his Excellency our Governor opened the Session with the following Speech, viz.

The SPEECH of His Excellency Sir HENRY MOORE, Baronet, Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over the Province of New-York, and the Territories depending thereon in America, Chancellor, and Vice Admiral of the same:

To the Council & General Assembly of the said Province.

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the General Assembly,

THE sanguine expectations so lately rais'd here of seeing our Disputes with the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in regard to Boundaries, brought to a speedy Determination, are hitherto disappointed: And notwithstanding the well known Abilities of the Commissaries employ'd in this Service, it will appear from their Report, that a Negociation of so much Consequence to both Provinces, and from which the Advantages to be derived were mutual, had not been attended with the wish'd for Success: but as their near Approach to an Agreement seems to point out that the Difficulties still subsisting are by no Means of such a Nature as to preclude all Expectations of being removed, I must recommend it to you that such Steps may now be taken, as you shall think most conducive to so good a Purpose, and that your ready Concurrence may not be wanting in every just and reasonable Measure for bringing this Matter to a desirable Issue.

In the mean Time the particular Situation of that Part of the Country chiefly interested in the Event of this Dispute, will require your serious Attention; and it is hoped that nothing will be omitted on your Part to discourage and prevent the Renewal of those Disorders which so lately prevail'd there to the Ruin of Individuals, and the Disgrace of the Government.

GENTLEMEN of the General Assembly,

In laying before you the Acts passed in the last Session of Parliament relative to the Legislature of this Province, and transmitted to me by his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State, I cannot harbour the least Doubt, but that the prudent Conduct of this House will render the Provisions contained in it unnecessary; and that their Zeal for his Majesty's Service, and Attachment to his Government, will always engage them to entertain a due Sense of the Blessings which they enjoy under his Protection, and the Influence of the British Constitution.

I Must again repeat what I urg'd in a former Session concerning the vague and undetermin'd Boundaries of the different Counties of this Province, and the Necessity of making a proper Provision for ascertaining them: A very essential Service will thereby be rendered to the Country, by preventing those Scenes of Litigation which so much impede the present settling of those Parts, and of Course must in Time be productive of the greatest Mischiefs.

Gentlemen of the Council, & Gentlemen of the General Assembly,

As His Majesty's Service and the Benefit of the Province will be concern'd in whatever I may have to lay before you, during the Course of your Session, I flatter myself not only of having your Assistance in Points of such Importance to this Community, but that it will be granted with Chearfulness, Unanimity and Dispatch.

New-York, 18th of November, 1767. H. MOORE.

Extract of a Letter from Niagara, dated Sept. 29, 1767.

"Having no News which can be agreeable, I must even tell you of our Misfortunes in the upper Country. On the 24th Instant, one of the Soldiers of the Company I belong to, gathered some Roots, which he thought were the Indian Potatoes, which he brought home, and after boiling them, shared them with six of his Companions, two of which were suddenly taken ill, and the Doctor being sent for, and hearing what they had been eating, began to prepare Vomits for them, but before he was able to return from the Hospital, one of them died in the greatest Agonies I ever saw: Finding the Roots poisonous, we began immediately to pour sweet Oil down their Throats, and giving them sweet Milk, to throw up the Poison, however another of them died in ten Minutes after being taken ill; we kept the other five drinking sweet Oil and Milk, and of Course puking, from half after Eight at Night to three in the Morning, when they were entirely worn out with Fatigue: there is another of them died the 27th Instant at Night, and the fourth is still in the utmost Danger: Three of them are, to all Appearance, out of Danger. The unhappy Man who gathered the Root, was the second who died: Instead of the Indian Potatoes, it was that called the Deadly Carrot, they eat; it's about two Inches long, or rather oblong: The Indians use it to poison one another."

PROVIDENCE, November 14.

Yesterday a Letter from the Select-Men of the Town of Boston came to the Town Council of this Town, inclosing the Votes of the Town Meeting of Boston, held on the 28th of October last, for encouraging the Use and Consumption of all Articles manufactured in the American Colonies, with the Form of a Subscription (agreed upon in said Meeting, and now filling up very fast in that Town, and other Parts of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay) not to purchase certain enumerated Articles imported from abroad, and recommending to this Town such similar Measures, as may be judged will tend to the Emolument of this Town and Colony.—Upon this Occasion, it is hoped and expected that the Town will be called together, to deliberate upon the important Object of this Application.—We make no Doubt, but the laudable Example from Boston will be followed here, as Poverty and Ruin most evidently threaten the whole Country, as a Consequence of the immense Imports from abroad of Superfluities, and such Articles as may be manufactured here.

Nov. 21. Upon the Recommendation of the Town Council, and others, in Consequence of a Letter from the Select Men of Boston to that Board, the Town Clerk's Warrant is issued for calling a Town Meeting on Wednesday next, at One o'Clock in the Afternoon, for entering into some effectual Measures for promoting Industry, Oeconomy and Manufactures. The Town, it is tho't, will generally attend, and exert themselves for bringing about the grand Purposes of their Meeting, as the Consequences of the vast imports of Superfluities, and such Goods as may be fabricated here, with the Effects of certain new Regulations, begin to be sensibly felt.

One Day this Week a number of Ladies, upon an afternoon's visit, at a friend's House, appeared dressed principally in the Manufactures of this Colony, and without Ribbons. They were genteely treated by the Lady of the House (who was in the same Habit) with suitable Refreshments, altho' TEA was excluded. It is hoped this Example of Oeconomy will be followed.

BOSTON, November 30.

At a General Council held at the Council-Chamber on Wednesday the 18th Instant, His Excellency the Governor was pleased to nominate JONATHAN SEWALL, Esq; to be Attorney General for this Province: To which Nomination His Majesty's Council did advise and consent.

Last Tuesday Morning died here after a long Indisposition Mr. JOSEPH CALLENDER, Baker, aged 56 Years. His Remains were decently inter'd last Thursday Afternoon.

Last Thursday died, greatly lamented, Deacon Samuel Harris, of the Presbyterian Congregation of this Town.—He was a Person well respected by all who knew him.—His Remains are to be interr'd this Afternoon.

Monday last Mr. Nathaniel Mulliken, of Lexington, Clock-Maker, (who to all Appearance had been as well that Day as at any Time) as he was coming in at the Door of his House, instantly fell, and, notwithstanding all possible Endeavours for Relief, expired in a few Moments, to the great Grief of his disconsolate Widow and seven Children. His Remains were inter'd on Thursday.

It having been propagated with great Industry that none but a few factious discontented Squabblers in Boston were uneasy with the Ruin of their Country, it is with Pleasure we can assure our Readers, that a manly and sensible Piece has appeared in the Providence Gazette of the 14th Inst. in our Opinion inferior to none published here or elsewhere, and only on Account of its Length omitted in this Paper.——We confess our Sorrow that so many can sleep in such a Storm, but its Increase will awaken the most drowsy——Pray God it may be in Time to save the Vessel who now labors hard, and is sore tossed.

We are informed that a Child of a Mechanic of this Town, which was carried out the last Week for Christening, was wholly dress'd in the Manufactures of this Province——and that the Use of Ribbons is almost out of Fashion.

A Clergyman from the Country lately appeared in Town with a black Cloak, made of fine Cloth manufactured in his Family, and finely dyed and dressed by an Artificer in this Town.

A Number of Gentlemen in a Country Town in this Province, have agreed that no more Bohea Tea shall come into their Families, than can be purchased with the Rags saved for our Paper Manufactory.

We hear the Town of Kensten, at their Meeting last Week voted unanimously to adopt the same Measures with Boston, respecting Oeconomy and Home Manufactures——and that Warrants are issued for calling Meetings in a Number of other Towns this and the next Week.

The great Demand for Labradore or Hyperion Tea, has raised the Price above that of Bohea——a full Supply is expected in the Spring from our Eastern Shores.——Bohea Tea is now totally laid aside or used but very sparingly, in many of the best Families in this Town.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Manufacturers of PAPER at Milton, beg the Favor of the Public, to furnish them with what Linnen Rags they can spare, for which the greatest possible Allowance will be given.—All Persons dispos'd in this Way to encourage so useful a Manufacture, are hereby acquainted that Linnen Rags and old Paper (to be kept seperate from each other) will be receiv'd at the following Places, viz.

In Boston, at Mr. Caleb Davis's Shop near the Fortification, Mr. Thomas Chase near Liberty-Tree, Mr. Andrew Gillespie, Tobacconist, in Fore-Street, Mr. John Bois's House in Long-Lane, and at Edes & Gill's Printing-Office in Queen-Street——At Mr. Elliot's Master of the Workhouse in Salem; at Mr. Williams's Master of the Workhouse in Marblehead, to each of whom we have been already much oblig'd——At Mr. Bulkeley Emerson Stationer in Newbury-Port, and at Mr. Daniel Fowle's, Printer in Portsmouth.———If any Person will favor us in this Way, who live near Winnisimet-Ferry, or in Black Horse Lane in Boston, or in the Center of the Town of Charlestown, they are desir'd to send their Names to Edes and Gill's Printing-Office.———As large Quantities of Paper fortunately arriv'd from Europe before the Duties could be demanded, it is hoped before that can be consum'd, there will be sufficient of this Country Manufacture for future Use.

ALL Persons who have Accounts open with the late Company of Fenno and Vose, are desired to come to an immediate Settlement with said Vose the surviving Partner.—. The Business is carried on by the said Vose, at Milton, as usual. DANIEL VOSE.

Drugs & Medicines.

John Loring

HAS juſt received from England,

A General Aſſortment

of DRUGS and MEDICINES, of the beſt Qualities, which he ſells Wholeſale or Retail, at his Shop fronting Cornhill, a little above the Market.——ALSO,

BOERHAAVE's CHYMICAL TINCTURE, prepared from an original Receipt, of which there is not perhaps any true Copy now extant.—It is a powerful Deobſtruent, and an excellent Stomachic. It removes Diſorders of the Kidneys, Liver and Meſentery. Is greatly ſerviceable in Hectics, and with Caution may be uſed in the moſt violent inflamatory Fevers. It is uncommonly efficacious in the Scurvy and Jaundice. As it is apt to increaſe the Diſcharge of Urine, it will not be adviſeable to uſe it in Caſes where that Evacuation is too copious.—It is to be given in chronic Caſes Morning and Evening, to Adults from 40 to 60 Drops, to Children from 6 to 30, in Water or Wine, upon an empty Stomach.—In acute Caſes, it may be given once in 3 or 4 Hours, as Occaſion may require.

N. B. This Medicine has been uſed with the greateſt Succeſs, and has produced ſurprizing Effects in a great Variety of Diſorders; but as it is not known, at leaſt not generally in this Country, and he deſigns not to impoſe on the Public, any Gentleman of the Faculty in the Town of Boſton, who ſhall pleaſe to make Trial of it, ſhall be welcome to a Bottle; and he doubts not of their Approbation when they have experienced its Efficacy and Safety.—— It will be ſold at Two Piſtareens a Bottle.

RICHARD CRANCH

From ENGLAND,

WHO lately carried on the WATCH MAKER's Buſineſs at Salem, hereby informs the Public, That he has removed from thence to Boſton, where he carries on the ſame Buſineſs, at his Shop in Hanover-Street, a little to the Southward of the Mill-Bridge. And he would particularly inform the Gentlemen of Salem, Marblehead, and the neighbouring Towns, who favour'd him with their Cuſtom before he remov'd, that they may have their Watches bro't to him, and carried back again to Salem, free of any Charge for Carriage by applying to Mr. Beardmah, who goes regularly three Times a Week in the Stage-Chaiſe between Salem and Boſton.
